CALITERRA AWARDED WITH DOUBLE GOLD AND GOLD MEDALS IN JAPAN

The Sakura Japan Women's Wine Awards, whose judges are exclusively female winemakers, sommeliers, specialized journalists and other wine-related professionals, is considered a top category event, which influences the trends of the ever demanding Japanese market and serves as a guide for consumer habits. This contest not only rewards the price-quality ratio of the wines, but also strongly highlights the pairing that can be achieved with Asian cuisine.

Three wines from Viña Caliterra were awarded with Double Gold Medal and two Gold Medals at the Sakura Japan Women's Wine Awards. In its seventh edition, the jury opted for two wines Cabernet Sauvignon and a Chardonnay from the winery located in Colchagua Valley, in recognition for the quality of these varieties, which currently play an important role among the preferences of the Japanese female community.

The wine that stood out among its peers, and which was awarded with Double Gold Medal, was Tributo Cabernet Sauvignon 2016, a wine that honors the quality of its lands, its people and the details that have been perfectly combined for its creation. Also in the Red Wine Category, the winner of the Gold Medal was Caliterra Reserva Cabernet Sauvignon 2017.

On the other hand, Tributo Chardonnay 2016 was also awarded with Gold Medal. The minerality and freshness of white fruits such as water pear stand out in this wine from the Casablanca Valley.

ABOUT THE CONTEST

Sakura Japan Women's Wine Awards is a contest created by Yumi Tanabe, one of the most prominent and influential specialized wine journalists in Japan, whose relevance is also recognized worldwide. This contest honors wines in Japan, where women are the main protagonists, as the jury is 100% female. The contest is also the perfect platform for participating wineries to launch and promote their wines in the demanding Japanese market. In its latest 2020 version, a total of 4,326 samples from 34 different countries were presented, being one of the most important wine events at an international level.
